

Liz Smith

NEW YORK POST, SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 2001

Click here for Gallery

WHO IS that dazzling looking charmer on the cover of the Hampton Sheet? The photograph has definitely been “fooled with” by the artist-publisher Joan Jedell so that it resembles her well-known style of blending color art work with digital photography.

The result is a Liz Smith I hardly recognize or know as I sit here in an old sweatshirt and blue jeans. But I am very happy to have been glamorized in the Jedell manner and especially for her year 2001 kickoff issue.

The interview inside might raise a hackle or two in celebrity circles, but then reporter Jedell knows how to talk one into saying things one might wish they'd never said.

Joan's work has appeared in all the best magazines, and in this Hampton Sheet she has also photographed Ivana, Christine Baranski, Mary Tyler Moore, Lauren Bacall, Barbara Wal- ters, Star Jones, Iris Love, Kathie Lee Gifford, Vernon Jordan, Prince Edward of England — and, yes, David Pecker, the man who owns the National Enquirer. I seem to have locked arms with him though we'd only just met. Well, that's the publicity celebrity game according to the Hampton Sheet, a not-to-be-missed issue. You could fax (212) 249-1951 if you'd like to order it.

<< Previous

Next >>