TRY TO GET your mitts on Joan Jedell's Hampton Sheet with the gorgeous Christie Brinkley on the cover. Inside, this beauty has her say against the three nuclear power plants that ring the greater New York area. (Christie works with the Star Foundation trying to protect 24 million people within the range of these plants.) She speaks of her disappointment in Barbara Kopple's documentary on the Hamptons, in which Christie participated to help publicize her fight against low-level radiation. She feels Kopple sensationalized the film and presented a lurid view of the Hamptons. Here is a model still working hard, good-looking and successful at age 48 doing philanthropy on the side. Way to go, Christie!
